Abstract of the Disclosure

Compositions and methods which permit effective use of multiplexed particles of dimensions less than the resolution of the detector are useful in assessing the spatial pattern of targets or substructures within a specific environment.